Summary of activities 2018-2019

- May 2018:
 - I attended the PCC Operations Committee meeting.
- May and October 2018
 - Statistics were collected from Music Funnel participants using a Survey Monkey form modeled on the one used by the PCC for BIBCO statistics. Unlike PCC's statistics, the Music Funnel statistics are broken down by format.
 - The cumulative total below reflects program statistics since we began official collection in May 2016. It also includes a number of records our reviewers reported as created by their reviewees from July 2015 through approximately February 2016. A few institutions did not report statistics in October 2018, probably due to confusion arising with the new PCC statistics procedures.
 - The institution of new procedures for the collection of statistics instituted in the fall of 2018 by the PCC may have an effect on how the Music Funnel collects statistics in the future. For the time being members are still responding to the Survey Monkey form to report BIBCO Music statistics broken down by format. We will be discussing future directions at our PCC Funnels meeting
- 2018-2019 in summary
 - After a quiet year in 2017-2018, this past year was one of activity and growth. We have a new institutional member, Oberlin Conservatory, and three new individual members, one of whom has already achieved independence.
 - At the request of the PCC, Casey Mullin is reviewing the work of two music catalogers at the University of Michigan. Although these catalogers are not members of the NACO Music Project for name-title records, they will be able to create BIBCO records for which all name-titles are already established in the NAF.
